

Kids, please ask a reasonably crafty adult for help!

Bowser

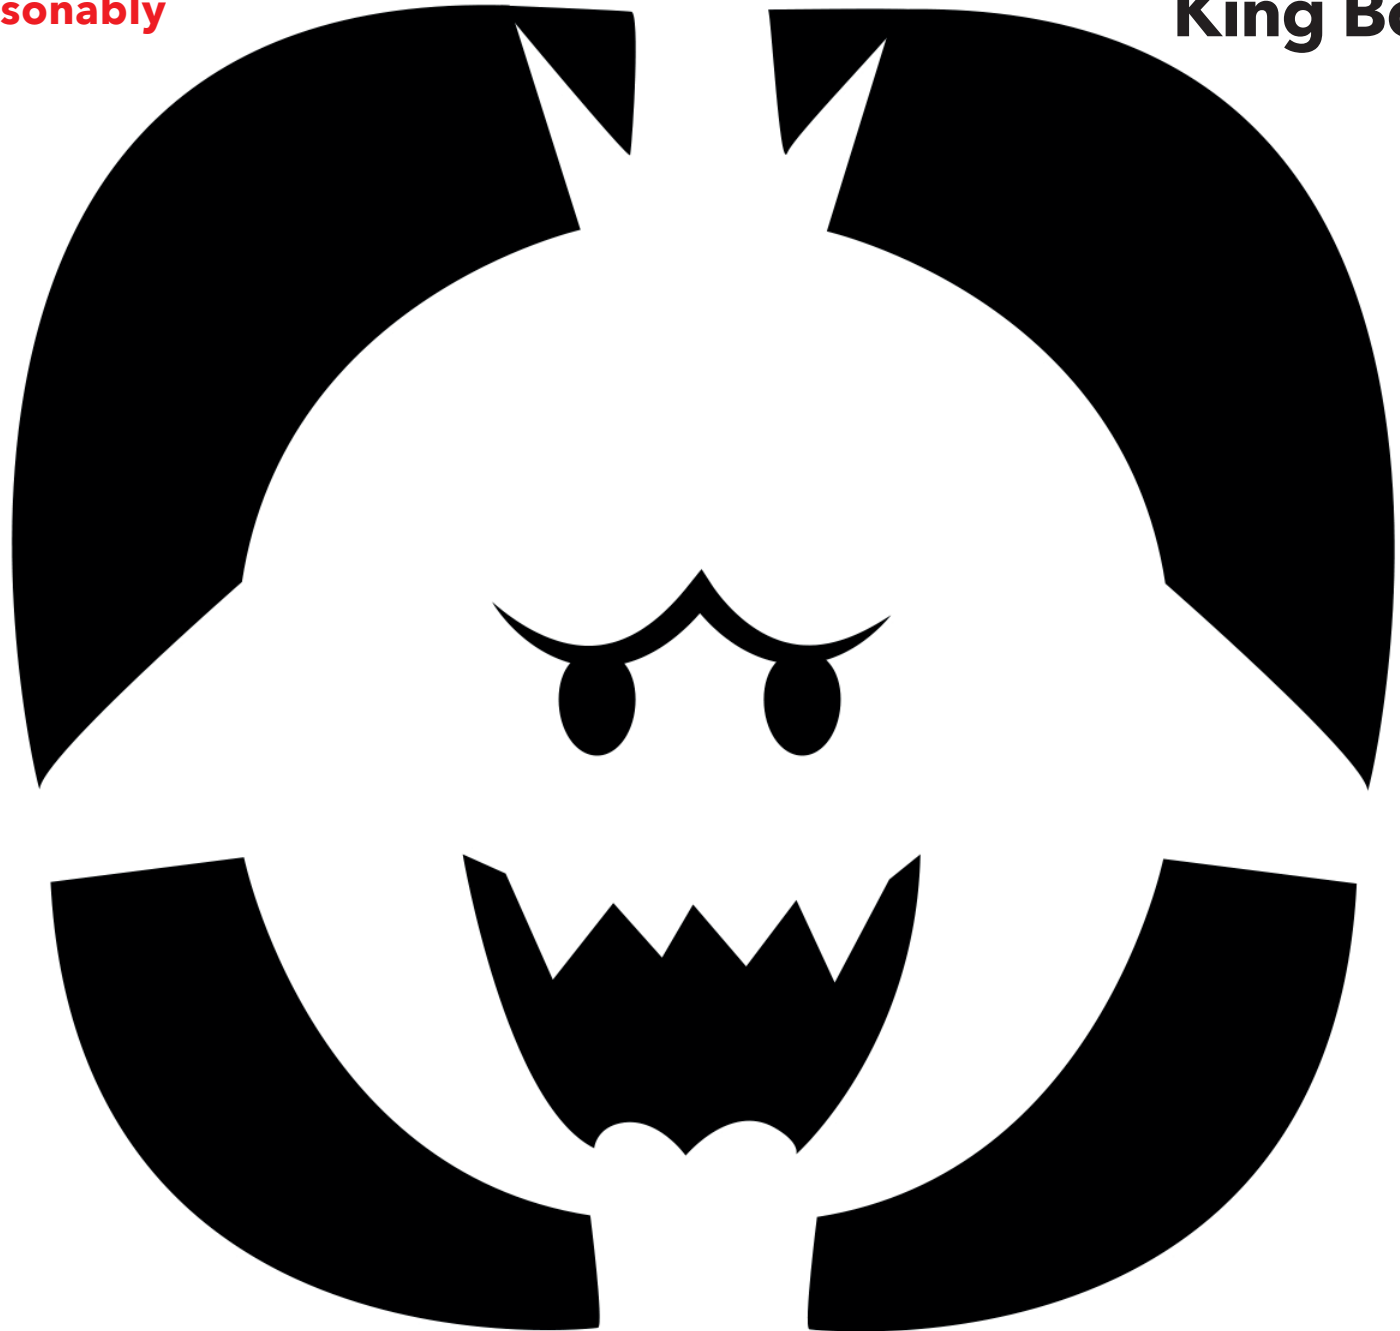

1. Click the Download button, then print the stencils.
2. Make a lid on a pumpkin, and then gut it. We won't get into the squishy details. It's either gross or awesome, depending on your temperament.
3. Cut out the black sections of the stencil. An adult should do that with something sharp. Don't scratch up the kitchen table, please.
4. Hold or tape the stencil against the pumpkin, then use a marker or pencil to draw the cut-out shapes on the pumpkin.
5. Have an adult use a small knife or carving tool to cut out the shapes.
6. Illuminate the inside of your jack-o-lantern with something luminous. Those glow stick things are probably the safest way to do it. A candle is the traditional method—get an adult to light the candle and place the pumpkin in a safe location, etc.
7. Whoa! Did you actually do all of that?
Sweet jack-o-lantern!

Kids, please ask a reasonably crafty adult for help!

King Boo

1. Click the Download button, then print the stencils.
2. Make a lid on a pumpkin, and then gut it. We won't get into the squishy details. It's either gross or awesome, depending on your temperament.
3. Cut out the black sections of the stencil. An adult should do that with something sharp. Don't scratch up the kitchen table, please.
4. Hold or tape the stencil against the pumpkin, then use a marker or pencil to draw the cut-out shapes on the pumpkin.
5. Have an adult use a small knife or carving tool to cut out the shapes.
6. Illuminate the inside of your jack-o-lantern with something luminous. Those glow stick things are probably the safest way to do it. A candle is the traditional method—get an adult to light the candle and place the pumpkin in a safe location, etc.
7. Whoa! Did you actually do all of that?
Sweet jack-o-lantern!

Kids, please ask a reasonably crafty adult for help!

Shy Guy

1. Click the Download button, then print the stencils.
2. Make a lid on a pumpkin, and then gut it. We won't get into the squishy details. It's either gross or awesome, depending on your temperament.
3. Cut out the black sections of the stencil. An adult should do that with something sharp. Don't scratch up the kitchen table, please.
4. Hold or tape the stencil against the pumpkin, then use a marker or pencil to draw the cut-out shapes on the pumpkin.
5. Have an adult use a small knife or carving tool to cut out the shapes.
6. Illuminate the inside of your jack-o-lantern with something luminous. Those glow stick things are probably the safest way to do it. A candle is the traditional method—get an adult to light the candle and place the pumpkin in a safe location, etc.
7. Whoa! Did you actually do all of that?
Sweet jack-o-lantern!

